

Abbotsford Law

Abbotsford Law - Nearly all professional athletes come to the conclusion that acquiring legal assistance while constructing player contracts is in their best interest.

There are many similarities in the contracts of professional athletes and other careers that the lawyer will handle day by day, Although most professionals are better represented by a third-party negotiator. Bonuses, salaries, in addition to any other conditions that are outlined in the player contract could generally be raised via skilled, forceful negotiation.

Typically, the professional athlete is much more concerned with scoring goals, scoring touchdowns, hitting home runs and providing entertainment then they are with contract negotiations. Due to our expertise and knowledge handling contract negotiations, our firm has many professional athletes as clients.