

Traffic Lawyers Abbotsford

Traffic Lawyers Abbotsford - In response to the many new challenges that are faced by the business of transportation, our company's transportation law services have evolved in recent years. Nowadays, we now have a varied group of transportation business experts offering various legal assistance, where we once just focused mostly on advising and representing motor carriers, like buses and trucks.

To be able to understand the emerging issues and trends in transportation law, we assist our client handle all the laws affecting their businesses. We are involved in many North American transportation lawyers' associations, and also partake in their committees. We are often requested to present papers on topical matters at conferences. And we work in order to maintain close relations with industry participants and our peers throughout North America.